SALUTED THE FLAG

(From Thursday's Advertiser.)

Five years ago yesterday the American flag supplanted the Hawaiian flag in the islands as the official emblem of authority. The anniversary was appropriately observed in all the public schools yesterday with the singing of patriotic songs and the delivery of addresses honoring the Stars and Stripes.
It was a patriotic object lesson to the school children, and the endeavor was made everywhere to show them the true meaning of the symbol of freedom.

Superintendent of Public Instruction James C. Davis sent to all the schools a circular letter suggesting the form of a program that might be followed to advantage. He said: June 14th being the 128th anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes as the flag of the United States, the Department of Public Instruction of this Territory respectfully requests that the day be observed with appropriate exercises. The Department suggests the following program:

Salutation of the flag.
Song, "America," by the school.
Address, "History of the flag," by the principal.
Song, "Star Spangled Banner," by the school.
Recitation, "The American Flag," by pupils.
Song, "Battle Hymn of the Republic," by the school.

"This is simply suggestive; each principal is at liberty to make his own program. This program will form a part of the regular school work of the day."

THE HIGH SCHOOL.

The High School exercises were held in the afternoon. Over the highest cupola of the school, once the home of Princess Ruth of the Kamehameha dynasty, and where only the Hawaiian flag then floated, the American flag proudly flaunted its rich colors in the breeze. In the school rooms beneath this building now devoted to the upbuilding of many and womanly Americanism, the students participated in and listened to sentiments which told what the flag stood for. First they sang America and then other patriotic songs. Then there was a reading by Miss Maud Patey, and a number of students participated in a selection which told, by details, of the beginnings of the American flag.

Prof. M. M. Scott, the principal, then made an address on the true meaning of the flag. It was not a "Come on, boys, follow me! Hurrah! hurrah!" meaning, it had a deeper one than that. To indicate the real sentiment symbolized by the stars and stripes, Professor Scott called attention to the school and class flags of the students.
These incited a spirit of all that went to give them character, truthfulness and steadfastness to the ideals of their school. And so the American flag stood for the greater sentiment, that of loyalty to the nation, civic righteousness and the dignity of America.

KAIULANI SCHOOL.

The exercises of Kaiulani School, Palama, were held in the forenoon.
The flag was hoisted on the flagstaff in the front yard. All the pupils were massed about the staff and the flag salute was given, saying in unison, "We give our heads and our hearts to God and our country; one country! one language! one flag!" the last two words being fairly shouted, and at the same time 600 fingers were pointed upward to the waving colors. It was an impressive sight. The children then sang "My Country, 'Tis of Thee."

SCHOOLS CLOSE FRIDAY.

The public schools close on Friday of this week for the summer vacation.
All the schools will have appropriate exercises to mark the happy day, and these exercises will breathe patriotism and Americanism.

The High School will hold its exercises at Progress Hall in the evening, admission by card only. Rev. Doremus Scudder will make the address to the graduation class. The program will include some excellent chorus singing by the school.

The Kaiulani School at Palama has arranged an attractive program to be day morning. The program follows:

ISSUES OF THE DAY

Editor Advertiser: I would like to appeal to the reason of the white voters on this island. Listening to the arguments made to natives by natives, their logical force, their fitness to the issue and in many instances the higher plane on which the argument is put impresses me; but the arguments which are made by the supporters of Arthur Brown make me ashamed of the white race. Those which I hear are that an attack has been made on Arthur Brown and "that settles it"; that the organization of the party is in danger and the contest should have been made in the primary, and lastly, that Arthur Brown should be personally proved to be criminally guilty before the white voter should be invited to vote for his opponent.

The first objection answers itself.
How can you raise a moral issue against a candidate, and no one denies this to be the issue raised, unless you raise it? The need of the age is plain speaking and honest thought. The man who makes this objection becomes a partner with wrong, when he advocates condoning it.

As to the second objection, if the party organization turns out a bad product, it is time that it should be destroyed and a stronger and better one built in its place. We all advocate independent voting theoretically. It is the practical test at which men flinch.
If we need anything in this Territory it is the courage of our convictions.
The enemy of the state is not the man who has the courage of his convictions, but the man who tamely submits to bad government because it is ordained by the machine.

For the third objection I have less respect than either of the others. I see man after man of the class we call respectable who says that he is satisfied that Chillingworth, McDuffie et al were guilty whether the jury convict them or not; that it is ridiculous to believe that a man could spend five or six hundred dollars per month on a salary of one-third the amount; that the police force was corrupt under Brown and full of graft, but says "you have not convicted Arthur Brown yet." The man who says this is trifling with his conscience. He knows in his heart that what is on trial is an honest, efficient, intelligent and faithful execution of the law, and having admitted that this was not had under the Brown administration and admitting as every one does that it has been had under the Henry administration, he seeks to evade the moral question by turning it on to Arthur Brown's actual participation in crime.

But there is another argument stronger and more potent than all these. We are struggling to vindicate our right to self government. For myself, although I believe that county government is a feeble variety of the republican form and dying at that, I did not oppose the enactment of the county law but urged members of the Legislature to keep their pledges to the people. I shall certainly regret my action if in the first election it is used to disorganize the administration of justice in this Territory. Situated as we are in the middle of the Pacific a sink for the overflow of the vice of the Orient and with so varied constituents struggling up into the duties of a free citizenship, we shall be found wanting if we place in control of the execution of the penal laws a man who has been tried and pronounced wanting by both of the men who will be his official superiors. It is a notorious fact that Brown could not get along with Attorney General Andrews and insisted on having his Department taken out from under the control of his official head, and that the present executive who has the confidence of the President is sure to remain Governor, regards it as a menace to his power to enforce the laws that Arthur Brown should be elected.

The objections which are urged against the course of the Civic Federation which has stood for intelligent action and an intelligent method of enforcing the laws are childish and puerile, and it is time that the haole element in our community, if they are to do their fair share in formulating and administering its government and starting a new form of government, namely county government, in motion, should unite with the Civic Federation in endeavoring to secure efficiency, cooperation and honesty in its administration.

cruel, scales, and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening, and soothing red, rough, and sore hands, in the form of baths for soothing irritations, inflamadermal weakness, and for many sanative antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, and especially mothers, and for all the purposes of the toilet, bath and nursery. No amount of persuasion can induce those who have once used it to use any other, especially for preserving and purifying the skin, scalp, and hair of infants and children. CUTICURA SOAP contains delicate emollient properties derived from CUTICURA, the great skin cure, with the purest of cleansing ingredients and the most refreshing of

TRIP OF THE BAND

There has been a hitch in the program to send the Hawaiian band to the Lewis and Clark Exposition at Portland. The transportation for thirty members of the band was agreed to by Secretary Taft for the transport leaving Honolulu in September. This courtesy was granted after considerable pulling of wires.

Now it is learned that the Lewis and Clark fair people say that they will have no use for the services of the band after September 7; that the band must be in Portland in August, to play at least three weeks. Should the band go to Portland it will have to take the regular mail steamer leaving here August 8, and leaving San Francisco again for home on September 9.

Advices are expected to arrive on the Sonoma from the fair people as to what they may decide in the premises.
If the band has to go by mail steamer a sum of money will have to be advanced to pay the fares. Another chance for the Chamber of Commerce.

BURBANK'S NEW DISCOVERIES

SANTA ROSA, June 3.—The forces of steam and electricity were play-things for ages and later furnished interesting laboratory experiments. Now they have been applied marvelously for the benefit of man. The forces embodied in plant life have never until very lately been understood. These forces are destined to produce greater changes for the benefit of mankind than have as yet been produced by steam and electricity.

This remarkable statement came from the lips of Luther Burbank, the creator of so many new plants, flowers and fruits, in an interview had with him by "The Examiner" correspondent.
It is not only the men great and learned in the science and thought of the time that are interested in Luther Bur-bank's work. Kings and rulers of the world are writing to him now, asking him questions and requesting him to interest himself in the creation or upbuilding of some form of plant life in their domains. It is a fact that within the past week there have come to Bur-bank's home personal letters from kings and rulers of the Old World.
"The Examiner" man held in his hand tonight a letter from a king, which came by the mail today, asking Mr.
Burbank some questions concerning branches of his work. Mr. Burbank will not permit the letter to be made public or the identity of the sender to be known. He regards as a personal matter the import of the royal writings.

MISSIONARIES' APPEAL.

There is almost a pathetic side to some of the correspondence Mr.
Burbank receives. In reply to questions tonight, he said that he had received letters from missionaries in far-off Africa and other countries, imploiring him to send them "only one seed" of his creation of "spineless cactus," so that it may grow and save these people from starvation. Bur-bank's spineless cactus has stirred the world to its uttermost parts, and it was "The Examiner" that published the first story of the creation, sent in a dispatch from Santa Rosa. To all these hundreds of letters that Mr. Burbank has received about the cactus he has replied that not one seed or plant has left his hands as yet. The plant must be fully perfect before his task is completed.

"You may say," said he, "through 'The Examiner,' that not a single thornless cactus plant has been sent out, despite the fact that reports have come to hand from different places that people have my thornless cactus."

Burbank's interviewer asked him for something more about the production of rapid-growing walnut trees, referred to in this morning's "Examiner." He said that by crossing and constant selection, rapid growth could be produced in any tree or plant. The possibilities, he said, were wonderful along this line. A new age of forestry is about to dawn. Forestry, in Mr. Bur-bank's opinion, is to demand ruling attention in the near future.

HIS CHESTNUT TREE.

There is nothing speculative about the matter of rapid growth of trees.
Burbank has indisputable facts to prove it. Take the chestnut tree, for instance. It was not so many years ago when it was conceded that a chestnut tree must attain an age of fifteen years before a crop of nuts would be yielded. The idea of waiting so long for a tree to grow to be of benefit to mankind was more than the creative genius of a Burbank could endure. By his process of crossing and particularly careful selection he actually found that in about eighteen months
